

Enrolling in a Musical Theatre class is an exciting step, but adding a Triple Threat technique class gives students the tools to truly excel. While the performance class focuses on putting on a show, the technique class strengthens the core skills of singing, dancing, and acting—helping students build confidence, control, and versatility. By developing these foundational abilities, students are better prepared to take on any role and bring stronger, more polished performances to the stage.